Dear Colleagues

In pursuant to my earlier mail please allow me add the following; the virtual academic academy SHOULD NOT distract professional soccer players from their primary task and that is playing soccer. This academy is therefore secondary and tailored around the professional programmes of each player. This project could have a pilot study (size & scope to be determined) to do impact of the feasibility (and learn all the lessons to be learnt and the infrastructure required to sustain such an operation) BEFORE a full roll-out is considered. Such a pilot could run for 3 years.

May I suggest a way forward;

- (1) That if and when you are interested you invite me to do a fowmal presentation
- (2) Followed by a formal written proposal
- (3) Which will include project costs.

Warm greetings
Selvin

Dear Friend

I am Selvin Daniels - Educationist and Consultant in Cape Town Professional Soccer player begin career at 20-25 until 30yrs of age...from the offset they have no-little formal schooling and/or qualification.

I propose we establish a "SAFA Virtual Learning Academy (SAVLA)"

- Step 1 - profile all player
- Step 2 - seek opportunity & match profile
- Step 3 - enrol them into formal schooling/study
- Step 4 - monitor and support their progress

I would like to serve and be of service.

Selvin
